

Response to NICE Consultation on High-intensity focused ultrasound for symptomatic benign thyroid nodules

We would endorse this guidance - the technique looks worthwhile and the papers provided are proof of efficacy. From a safety perspective, it seems that this procedure is likely to be safer than the alternative forms of ablation (RF and microwave) as there is less damage to other structures.